

ACTOR OF THE WEEK

FRANCESCA WHITE

#AHactor

Francesca Louise White is a "small but feisty" British actress with a particular love for film and wigs. She has acted in diverse roles and genres: from theatre such as the play 'Getting Back To Me' directed by Josh Hinds and performed in Waterloo, to various indie short films such as action comedy 'Dead Meet' by Daniel. J Brant, comedy 'Bragging Rights' by James Atkins and romantic drama 'Back to the Start' by St Maur Pictures, to upcoming thriller feature film 'Milk & Honey' starring Claire King and Mark Wingett, and also featuring 'Buffy The Vampire Slayer's Xander Nicholas Brendon, by the talented team of Linda and Peter Dunscombe, James Welling and Director Matt Gambell.

She is currently working on psychological thriller short 'Between the Divide' by Al Railton in which she plays a troubled detective, as well as researching alien abductions for sci-fi feature 'The Rendlesham Tapes' by Adam J Morgan and Sam Ulley, and determinedly training up in running for the role of Velocity in feature 'Made Ordinary' by Christian Kotey, starring Bruce Payne and Sean Cronin.
